

Glossary

advertise	to tell others about a product so that they may buy it approach	to come near average	ordinary; not special blinking	to flash on and off complain	to say that you are not happy about something camouflage	to disguise; to cover or mask something so that it does not show, or so that it looks like something else disaster	a sudden event that brings great damage, loss, or destruction discover	to be the first person to find out some place or thing excellent	extremely good exhibit	things kept in a public place so that people can see them expensive	costing a lot of money experiment	a test carried out to discover or confirm something explorer	a person who travels to find out new geographical or scientific information frustrated	feeling annoyed and impatient homeless	having no home immigration	to come into a foreign country to live interview	a meeting held to get information from a person invention	a new creation librarian	a person in charge of a library mischievous	irresponsibly playful monarch	a ruler; king or queen machans	a platform where the hunters can hide native	a person who has always lived in a place navigator	a person who navigates a ship or an aircraft nourishment	food
peculiar	strange

Glossary

permission	to let somebody do something platform	the raised flat area besides the railway tracks where people get on and off the train porter	a person whose job is to carry luggage predict	to tell what might happen project	a piece of work done by students, which requires them to collect information on any given topic responsible	trustworthy; dependable rotating	turning around a central fixed point route	a travelled way; path specimen	an item which is an example of a similar group of things startled	to move or jump suddenly in surprise strange	odd; unfamiliar strap	to fasten with a strap supplies	money and goods given for spending syllables	the units into which a word is divided terrified	afraid; frightened trek	a long walk especially on the mountains or hills thoughtful	concerned; caring violent	with a lot of force voyage	a journey by sea